Rosie the Riveter

First verse of "Rosie the Riveter" song – Redd Evans & John Jacob Loeb, 1942

All the day long, whether rain or shine

She's a part of the assembly line

She's making history, working for victory

Rosie, brrrrrrrrrr, the riveter.

Certainly, one of the more readily recognizable icons of labor is "Rosie the Riveter," the indefatigable World War II-era woman who rolled up her sleeves, flexed her arm muscles and said, "We Can Do It!"

In 1942 manufacturing giant Westinghouse commissioned artist J. Howard Miller to make a series of posters to promote the war effort. One such poster featured the image of a woman with her hair wrapped up in a red polka-dot scarf, rolling up her sleeve and flexing her bicep. At the top of the poster, the words 'We Can Do It!' are printed in a blue caption bubble. To many people, this image is "the" Rosie the Riveter. But it was never the intention to make this image "Rosie."

The "Rosie" image popular during the war was created by illustrator Norman Rockwell for the cover of the Saturday Evening Post on May 29, 1943.

The magazine cover exemplified the American can-do spirit and illustrated the notion of women working in previously male-dominated manufacturing jobs, an ever-growing reality, to help the United States fight the war while the men fought overseas.

The campaign brought millions of women out of the home and into the workforce. To this day, Rosie the Riveter is still considered the most successful government advertising campaign in history.

Could You Do Us A Favor?

Our business was built on the kind words many of our clients say about us to their friends and family. And since we're looking to grow a little more, we could use your help right about now. If you know of someone who needs help with their vehicle—someone who's looking for a place they can trust—won't you please tell them about us? We know you really appreciate the way we look out for your family by all the thanks we get. And sharing us with your closest friends and family is the most sincere form of appreciation we know. So do both your friends and us a favor by giving them one of our referral cards. You will benefit as well by knowing your loved ones are in good hands—not to mention our gift to you for your kind actions. Thank You!

*When life gives you lemons....
make Lemonade

3-4# lemons (reserve 2-3 lemons)
1 pint ripe strawberries (reserve 4-5 strawberries) - optional, but delicious

2 c. sugar
3 Qt. + 2 c. water
1 Qt. ice

Prep lemons - Scrub lemons then let them sit in very warm water for about 5 minutes to soften. Cut lemons in half and squeeze lemons to get pulp and juice, but no seeds. Discard peels.

Make a simple syrup - combine sugar & 2 c. water in a small pot and bring to a boil. Stir until all granules are dissolved.

Fill a gallon pitcher with 1 quart of ice and 3 quarts of cold water. Pour in lemon juice and simple syrup. Stir.

Puree the strawberries - add juice to pitcher.

Slice or quarter the reserved lemons and strawberries and add to the pitcher.

Enjoy!

Yields: 1 gallon
