Sweet Beginnings...

- ◇ The early recipes for fruit upside down cakes were made in cast iron skillets on top of the stove. The classic American 'Pineapple Upside Down Cake' dates to sometime after 1903, when Jim Dole invented canned pineapple. The Hawaiian Pineapple Co. (now Dole Pineapple) held a pineapple recipe contest in 1925. Over 60,000 recipes were sent in, and 2,500 of them were for Pineapple Upside Down Cake. So it is obvious that between 1903 when canned pineapple was first available, and 1925 when the contest was held, Pineapple Upside Down Cake had become very popular.

- ◇ Chocolate chips were invented after the chocolate chip cookie. As the story goes, baker Ruth Wakefield tried to add chopped chocolate to cookie dough in hopes that it would be a shortcut to making a type of chocolate cookie, melting as the cookies baked. Well, the chocolate didn't melt all the way, but those melty bits of chocolate studded in the cookies were good enough to be declared a new classic. The popularity of this happy accident would spur the production of easy-to-use chocolate chips a few years later.

- ◇ German chocolate cake has nothing to do with Germany. The "German" of German chocolate cake fame was actually a man named Samuel German, who was an employee of an American chocolate company. German didn't invent the cake, but he is the one who developed German's sweet baking chocolate, which is a key ingredient in the cake. The cake was first dubbed "German's chocolate cake," but it was eventually shortened to "German chocolate cake."

Super Bowl Moments

I - Los Angeles: This was not called Super Bowl. It was the AFL-NFL World Championship Game before the merger of the leagues. The Packers collected $15,000 each for winning, and the Chiefs earned $7,500.

IX - New Orleans: The Mary Tyler Moore Show used this game as a plot line the night before the game. Set in Minneapolis, the show had the Vikings winning. Moore said during the closing credits that the show was fictional and if the Steelers won she would apologize, which she did.

XXI - Pasadena: The first "I'm Going to Disney World" ad was shot with quarterback and MVP Phil Simms after the Giants' 39-20 win against the Broncos.

XXXIII - Miami: Falcons defensive back Eugene Robinson, honored the day before the Super Bowl by Athletes in Action for his high moral character, was arrested that night. He still played the next day, although poorly, in a loss to the Broncos.

XLVIII - East Rutherford, N.J.: First outdoor Super Bowl in a cold-weather city, but the temperatures were in the 40s that day.

At the 2006 Turin Winter Olympics, Canada's Sara Renner broke a ski pole. A Norwegian coach gave her a new pole. Renner not only finished the race, but took silver with her teammate Beckie Scott. Eight thousand cans of maple syrup were sent to the Norwegian embassy as a Canadian thank-you to the coach.

Pineapple Upside-Down Cake with Sauce

- 1 stick butter – melted
- 1 c. brown sugar
- 2 cans pineapple slices in juice – reserve juice
- 1 yellow cake mix – prepare as per box
- Maraschino cherries & juice (1/3 c.)
- Brown sugar – 1/2 c.
- Butter – 1/2 stick
- Cornstarch – 2 TBSP mixed with 1/4c. cold water

In a 13"x9" pan mix melted butter and 1 c. brown sugar - spread evenly over bottom of pan. Add pineapple rings to cover the bottom & add cherries in center of each ring & as desired.

Evenly pour prepared yellow cake batter into the pan and bake as directed on the box, adding a few minutes of time, to allow for additional ingredients. Allow to cool in pan for 5 minutes then flip pan onto a cookie sheet without removing the pan. Allow to cool an additional 20 minutes before carefully lifting the pan off of the cake. Set aside to cool completely.

Heat pineapple and cherry juices, 1/2 c. brown sugar, and 1/2 stick of butter in a saucepan over medium heat until it comes to a low boil, then continue to cook and stir for an additional few minutes to thicken it. Then add the cornstarch liquid and cook for an additional minute or two.

Serve each slice of cake with a dollop of whipped cream and spoon a couple TBSP of the hot sauce over the whipped cream/cake.
